Backdown on Fare Increase Irks Senators

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators angered by the U.S. backdown on a fare increase on transatlantic air routes called government officials today for a public airing of the international dispute.

In advance of an afternoon hearing of the Senate Commerce Committee, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., protested this country had capitulated without a fight.

He estimated a 5 per cent increase in round-trip economy class fares will cost Americans traveling to Europe about $15 million a year.

What does it mean to the individual passenger? He will be paying an extra $27 for his New York-London economy (tourist) roundtrip ticket, according to State Department officials. His fare will go up from $486 to $513.

The increase voted last fall by the International Air Transport Association—IATA—actually is a reduction in the discount allowed for return tickets—5 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

The change went into effect Saturday in Europe, but until Tuesday the Civil Aeronautics Board had refused to permit American Airlines to adopt the higher fares.

It announced then through an exchange of letters between CAB Chairman Alan S. Boyd and Secretary of State Dean Rusk that it was yielding to diplomatic pressure.

Rusk had suggested that in the absence of CAB authority to regulate international air route fares, Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines should be permitted to file the increase fares.

But Pan American said it planned to continue present rates for several days "until the situation clarifies." Trans World also seemed in no hurry to act.

Great Britain had threatened to confiscate American airlines landing in London and to take other steps to prevent their operation on the Atlantic run unless they went along with the rate boost.

A high pressure area over Louisiana forced warm, humid air into Arkansas this morning, keeping overnight low temperatures in the 60s.

Skies were generally partly cloudy to cloudy and isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Installation at Southern State

Cynthia Harrison, second from left, was installed as vice-president of the Association of Women's Students at Southern State College last week. Miss Harrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Harrison of Hope and a junior business education major at Southern State.

JFK Delays Civil Rights Requests

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is delaying a decision on asking Congress for broad federal authority in civil rights cases while awaiting the results of efforts to end racial disturbances in the South.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said a request for authority to permit the attorney general to initiate cases for individuals "seemed to have been denied their rights remains a possibility."

Humphrey said Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy "does not feel at this time the need for this authority," because the President's request might agitate the situation in Birmingham, Ala., and elsewhere.

But Humphrey said he is confident there will be a decision made later on whether to add the controversial proposal to the administration's voting rights recommendations now before Congress.

Any such request would be likely to result in a stormy Senate filibuster by Southern opponents of civil rights measures. The political explosion that would greet any administration push to get action on such a bill could easily endanger congressional passage of a tax reduction to which Kennedy has given No. 1 priority in this session.

But the administration is under pressure from Northern Democrats and Negro leaders to move faster in the civil rights field than it thus far has shown a willingness to go.

Gen. Ben Lear Enters Hospital

SAT ATTOTIO, Tex. (AP)—Retired Gen. Ben Lear, 84, entered the Army's Brooke General Hospital Tuesday night. A Brooke spokesman said he was transferred from a Veterans' Hospital at Memphis, Tenn., for a checkup and his condition was good.

The general suffered a heart attack last month but had been reported in fine physical shape considering his age.

Warns Against Camous Necking

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State University officials are asking spooning students to practice cooler companionship.

A Baton Rouge newspaper said Tuesday a general assembly was held warning coeds that necking on the campus could be grounds for expulsion.

Killed by Truck

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
FERGUSON, Ark. (AP)—Freeman Jones, 9, a Negro of Ferguson, was struck by a car and killed Tuesday as he crossed a highway after getting off a school bus.

Woman Hurt in Fall From Horse

Mrs. Pam Parson Flowers was injured yesterday afternoon when she fell from a horse while riding in Fair Park. She sustained an ankle injury, bruises and lacerations. She was taken to a local hospital for treatment by a Herndon-Cornelius ambulance.

Kiwanians Observe 35th Anniversary

Hope Kiwanis Club celebrated its 35th anniversary Tuesday night at a dinner at Hotel Barlow with charter members as honored guests.

Charter members attending were W. S. Atkins and Franklin Horton, Harry Hawthorne, another charter member, is still a member of the club.

Dr. F. C. Crow had charge of the program and introduced John G. Gordon, Hot Springs, who owned and operated a chain of theaters for 25 years. Following Mr. Gordon's talk, President Dean Murphy introduced other guests and wives of Kiwanians.

Among those present were Mrs. Clarence Geist and the Rev. David Pearson who sang vocal numbers accompanied at the piano by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt.

Cotton Carnival Gets Underway

MEMPHIS (AP) — Fireworks striped and flowered the sky. Bands, sirens and horns blared and the royal barged docked here Friday night to signal the start of the 4-day Cotton Carnival.

Crowds crammed onto the waterfront cobblestones, waved from downtown building windows and laughed in the streets.

There were cheers for their majesties, oohs at the fireworks and gasps as Super Sabre jets of the Air Force Thunderbirds laced the sky with smoke from their roaring engines.

The carnival will continue until Saturday when the glittering court will parade back to the barge and sail down river for another year.

They Stayed Home, Enjoyed the Fire

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—One little troop of Brownies was to visit the fire station and one little troop stayed home.

When the first troop arrived at the station, the fire trucks were speeding away.

After half an hour, Mrs. William R. Delay troop leader took the girls back to St. Elizabeth's Catholic church.

There they found the firemen were just leaving after putting out a fire in a ventilating fan—and greatly entertaining the Brownies who stayed home.

River Bank Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $129,114 contract for bank stabilization work on the Arkansas River near Pine Bluff, Ark., will be awarded to the Southwest Construction Co. of Pine Bluff. The award was announced by Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., and will be made by the Little Rock District of the Army Engineers.

Williams' College Plans Graduation

The children of Williams' Wee College will present their annual graduation recital Friday, May 17, at 7 p.m. in the Brookwood school auditorium.

At this time Mrs. Grady Williams will present diplomas to 30 children who will enter elementary school next fall. The class:

Cathie Anne Arnette, Cynthia Gail Bright, Donna Kay Cobb, John Taylor Caldwell, John Stanley Crosby, Johnnie Kaye Dunbar, Pamela Maaden Gunter, Rebecca Jan Gunter, Becky Lynn Garrett, Betty Charlene Gilbert, Glen David Griffin, Shannon Sue Howell, Betsy Lynn Franks;

Burglars Also Got Bonds in Bank

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Burglars who entered the Bank of Delight last January and made off with $1,053 in silver also got $150,000 worth of savings bonds, the FBI revealed Tuesday.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Little Rock FBI office, said the bonds were kept in fishing tackle boxes that customers used for storage of valuables. The bank does not have safety deposit boxes, Moore said, and the loss was not discovered until owners of the bonds checked on them.

Moore said the theft marked the first time to his knowledge that savings bonds had been stolen during an Arkansas bank robbery. They were of the Series E type.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

Army ROTC cadets were officially recognized for outstanding achievement yesterday at annual Awards Day Ceremonies at the University of Arkansas.

Cadet David Watkins of Hope received the Chicago Tribune Medal as the Outstanding Battalion commander and an officer's saber was presented to Cadet Brigadier Col. Royce Weisenberger, Hope, in recognition for his exceptional service to the brigade.

Two Hempstead students were among those at Southern State College who attended a seminar at the Benton Unit of the Arkansas State Hospital May 14.

They are Larry Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garner of Hope and Jerry Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Williams of Patmos.

Larry Garner, a 1958 Spring Hill graduate, is a senior psychology major, member of student Senate president of Graham Hall and president of the Student Body.

Williams, a 1958 Hope graduate, is a junior pre-med major who is a transfer from the University of Arkansas and Annville Junior College.

Says Biracial Pact Broken by Wallace

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A Negro leader says Gov. George C. Wallace is trying to undermine a biracial agreement on Birmingham's racial problems by keeping state troopers in the city.

While the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth was calling on Wallace Tuesday night to remove the highway patrolmen, Wallace again was calling on President Kennedy to withdraw special federal troops he sent into Alabama.

Wallace replied to Shuttlesworth, one of the top leaders in the desegregation campaign, that the state troopers would remain in Birmingham as long as he thinks they are needed to help maintain law and order.

The White House announced no reply to Wallace's latest telegram protesting the federal troops, but the President has shown no inclination to recall the soldiers in previous exchanges with the Alabama governor.

In his latest telegram, Wallace demanded that what he termed an "advance echelon of a military striking force" be withdrawn from Birmingham. This was a reference to about 25 officers of a headquarters planning unit in the city. Wallace said their presence invited new rioting by Negroes.

About 3,000 riot-trained soldiers have been sent to military posts in Alabama, but they are not in Birmingham.

The President had lunch Tuesday with 25 Alabama publishers and editors and the main topic of discussion was the state's racial problems.

Kennedy reportedly urged cooperation between local Negro and white leaders, and said that any Negro trend toward extremism would be offset by conferences between moderates on both sides. The luncheon had been scheduled for some time.

The White House announced that Kennedy's trip to north Alabama Saturday for a Tennessee Valley Authority function will not include visits to Tusculum, Sheffield and Florence, as had been announced previously.

Mushrooming developments relating to Alabama's racial problems included:

—President Kennedy delays decision on asking Congress for broader authority in civil rights cases pending results of efforts to end racial disturbances in the South.

—About 300 Negroes met in Selma, Ala., 100 miles to the south, to plan a voter registration drive. The sheriff and about 600 deputies stood guard, turning away carloads of white persons. No trouble was reported.

—An integrated group including actress Madeline Sherwood planned a day-long vigil at a jail in Gadsden, Ala., where "freedom marchers" are held.

—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Southern integration leader said in Cleveland, Ohio that racial discrimination "must be uprooted from our society." He said desegregation in Birmingham would send repercussions throughout the South.

—Negro leader Roy Wilkins in New York urged "forebearance and restraint" in the use of federal troops in Alabama. He is executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Group Trying Halt Election

EVENING SHADE, Ark. (AP)—Four Evening Shade residents are attempting to halt a special election set for June 11 on the proposed consolidation of the two Sharp County judicial districts.

The citizens filed suit in Circuit Court to have the election declared illegal, citing Act 225 of 1963, which provides that such consolidation elections can be called by a County Court on petition of one-third of the voters of each district.

The suit was filed by C. K. Vance, Audy Stovall, A. M. Barnett and F. A. Parvin.

Fellowship Named for Mrs. FDR

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Newspaper Women's Club has established an international fellowship in the name of Eleanor Roosevelt to provide study and travel for newspaper women.

The club said Tuesday the fund is being started with a $10,000 grant from the members, and its trustees are seeking endowments and contributions.

Dr. Dan Christman, husband of the former Tawana Green of Hope, is serving aboard one of the recovery ships that will pick up Astronaut Gordon Cooper.

Gordon Cooper Soars Into Orbit, Chances Good for 22 Circles

Bulletin

Mrs. Carl Richardson, about 45, has confessed to the slaying of her husband early Sunday morning during a fight between the two at the family home near Prescott.

The confession was made to Prosecuting Attorney John Goodson and other officers this morning at Hempstead Courthouse. She told of hitting Richardson with a pipe wrench and stabbing him with a butcher knife and then taking his body to a lonely road off Highway 67 just inside Clark County. There she set fire to the auto and in the process was badly burned herself. She then went to Texas to visit relatives and returned this morning and was taken into custody.

The body was taken to a Little Rock hospital for identification. Officers of three counties have been working on the case along with State Police.

Mrs. Richardson was taken to Prescott shortly before noon today where she was placed in a hospital for treatment of burns sustained when she set fire to the truck.

Jaycees and Ladies Hold Banquet

The Hope Jaycees and JCeets had their annual banquet Monday night, May 13 in the Melon Room of the Barlow. Raymond Clark was Master of Ceremonies and introduced the guest speaker, Hank Eckstein of Texarkana, past national director of the JCeets. He made an inspirational address about the organization.

Glen Povey of Nashville, state vice-president installed the following officers in the Hope Jaycees: president, Roger Pitts; first vice-president, Pete Shedd; second vice-president, Mel Redd; secretary, Jack Reynard; treasurer, Herbert Griffin, Jr.; board of directors, Ted Price and Doyle Yocum.

Mrs. Hank (Jo) Eckstein of Texarkana, state district vice-president, installed these Jayceette officers: President, Mrs. Mel Redd; vice president, Mrs. Don Fuller; recording secretary, Mrs. Pete Shedd; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Raymond Clark; treasurer, Mrs. Roger Pitts; reporter, Mrs. Herbert Griffin Jr.; parliamentarian, Mrs. Doyle Yocum.

Jon Barbarotto was named the Outstanding Jaycee of the Year, and Mrs. D. G. Goodner was the Outstanding Jaycette of the Year. The Key Man Award went to Roger Pitts, and the Key Woman Award to Mrs. Raymond Clark.

A new award, that of Outstanding New Jaycette, was presented to Mrs. Roger Pitts. A gift of bracelet was made to the outgoing Jaycette president, Mrs. Lee Roy Anderson, by the new president, Mrs. Redd.

Pink roses and white candles decorated the tables where a buffet supper was served to about 30. Besides the out-of-town guests already mentioned, others were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harris and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor, all of Prescott.

Ann Carol Arnold

Ann Carol Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold of DeAin, has been selected to attend a Summer Science Institute at Louisiana Tech at Ruston. The course covers nine weeks and is for high ability secondary students. She will take courses in chemistry, mathematics and Botany-Bacteriology. Ann is a member of the National Honor Society at Hope High, member of the band, the Troubadours, FTA History Club and Mu Alpha Theta, honorary mathematics fraternity.

James Luck

James Luck was awarded the degree of State Farmer. The State association of the FFA awarded this degree for outstanding achievement in farming and leadership. It will be awarded to him at the annual state convention June 7th. A State Farmer must have earned at least $500 and deposited it in a bank or invested it productively. Each state association awards the degree to no more than 2 of every 100 members each year.

Mrs. Hank (Jo) Eckstein of Texarkana, state district vice-president, installed these Jayceette officers: President, Mrs. Mel Redd; vice president, Mrs. Don Fuller; recording secretary, Mrs. Pete Shedd; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Raymond Clark; treasurer, Mrs. Roger Pitts; reporter, Mrs. Herbert Griffin Jr.; parliamentarian, Mrs. Doyle Yocum.

Lions Will Cook Festival Chickens

The Hope Lions Club has been assigned the task of preparing 2500 Barbecued Chicken halves for this year's poultry festival.

Y. C. Coleman and his committee will begin work about 2:00 a.m. on the morning of the festival with the first chicken going on the fire about 3:30 a.m. and the last one coming off about 2:00 p.m. It's a long 12 hour stint for about 30 members of the Hope Lions Club. Joe Jones will prepare baked beans at Joe's City Bakery. Meyers Bread is preparing the Rolls.

Mrs. Ned Purtle's committee from the home demonstration council will box and serve the dinner in the Hope High cafeteria. Approximately 40 women of the council will work from noon until the last person is served, placing the chicken and extras in the specially prepared boxes.

To be served visitors will follow the regular cafeteria line entering opposite the Jr. High school, then going upstairs and out of the building and across the road to the stadium.

A ticket to the main event of the poultry festival this year you are really getting a bargain. For $1.00 you get a barbecued chicken dinner including a half of a 3 lb. chicken, a cup of baked beans, potato chips, roll, and egg cake. You then deposit your stub in the hopper for a drawing. Among the items to be given away will be a used car, a portable TV set and numerous small prizes. You will, of course, be able to see the princess pageant on the same ticket. Ralph Lehman and James Meyers are co-chairmen of ticket sales.

Second Takeoff Attempt Has No Trouble

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared away on America's longest planned space flight today, described his celestial ride as "quite a thrill" and early in the mission was given a go-ahead for at least seven of his planned 22 orbits.

During the first orbit he gave his spacecraft systems a thorough testing and pronounced them all in excellent shape. Mercury Control Center at Cape Canaveral then relayed the word that he was "go" for at least six more orbits.

That was the first of three critical decisions scheduled for the 34-hour flight. The other two were set for orbits 7 and 17.

Principal landing areas in the Atlantic and Pacific were at the end of each of these passes. However, alternate landing areas were located around the world in case of an emergency.

The decision to keep flying was passed on to Cooper by astronaut Virgil I. Grissom, capsule communicator at the Guaymas, Mexico, station.

"You're go for seven," Grissom—who made a suborbital flight years ago—reported.

"Roger," replied Cooper, and then jokingly made believe that he had understood Grissom to say thirty-plus orbits.

"For thirty how many?" he asked. "As many as you want," Grissom chuckled.

Minutes later, at 9:37 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft passed above the Florida-Georgia border to complete the first orbit.

That was one hour, 33 minutes after an Atlas rocket blasted off from Cape Canaveral to propel Cooper's spacecraft into a nearly perfect orbit ranging from 100 to 160 miles above the earth.

Each orbital pass was to take 88.7 minutes. The first circuit required longer because it included the boost phase of flight.

As Cooper completed orbit No. 1, he talked with astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. at Cape Canaveral. Schirra, whose six-orbit space flight record Cooper was out to break, told the pilot, "It was a beautiful shot."

"It looks pretty good from mup here, too," Cooper answered.

Schirra told Cooper to turn on his television camera and as the pictures were relayed to a monitor at the Cape, Schirra said, "You look pretty casual up there."

"Boy, I am," Cooper replied. During the first orbit Cooper became the first American space flier to be televised live in flight.

As his Atlas pushed him into space, the television camera relayed pictures of him in action and they were converted from their jersey slow-speed to normal television speed and relayed to American viewers by the national networks.

A ground station in the Canary Islands also picked up a television picture during a 7-minute Faith 7 overpass.

As he whirled into his second orbit, Cooper shut off all controls and electrical power and commenced drifting flight, allowing the craft to move freely on its overpass.

Second Takeoff

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Gordon Cooper soared into orbit in his tiny Faith 7 spacecraft today and began whirling on a marathon space journey intended to keep him aloft for more than 34 hours.

Minutes after entering orbit Cooper reported by radio that everything was "mighty good."

Astronaut Walter M. Schirra, in communication with Cooper at Cape Canaveral, said: "Great sport, isn't it?"

"It sure is," Cooper replied as he whizzed along on the first of a planned 22 circuits of the globe.

Schirra presently holds the American manned space flight record of 9 hours, 13 minutes.

Cooper 36 an Air Force major rocketed into space aboard a powerful Atlas booster which blazed away from Cape Canaveral at 8:04 a.m. Eastern Standard Time with a roar and a flash of flames.

Five minutes later the 1½-ton space craft had settled into its planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth. This was formally announced by Mercury Control Center.

Cooper took the control stick to rotate his capsule 180 degrees so that he was riding upright and backward with the craft's blunt heat shield pushing a path through space.

As he turned the capsule around, Cooper told Schirra he could see his spent Atlas booster following behind him very closely, also in orbit.

Schirra asked him what color the booster was.

Cooper replied that it was "sil-ver."

At the same time the astronaut reported fuel and oxygen supplies, electrical and other systems of the capsule were in excellent condition.

Cooper, the tenth man and the sixth American to rocket into space, was slated for the longest U.S. manned flight yet.

The flight plan called for him to circle the globe 22 times, traveling nearly 600,000 miles on a lonely voyage lasting 34 hours, 19 minutes. If all goes right, his Faith 7 craft will parachute to a landing in the Pacific southeast of Midway Island about 6:23 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Thursday.

The scheduled mission is nearly four times longer than Schirra's six-orbit trip last Oct. 3. But it falls far short of the tandem flights made last August by Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich, who remained aloft through 64 and 48 orbits respectively.

Even with the 90 extra minutes Tuesday, Cooper could not take off on his planned 22-orbit, 34-hour mission. The launching was held up more than two hours when a fuel pump had to be replaced in a diesel engine which moves the launch pad service tower away from the Atlas booster rocket. No sooner was that fixed, than the radar problem cropped up at Bermuda and the effort was postponed.

"This was a very realistic simulation," Cooper commented jokingly. "I was just getting to the real fun part. . . . We'll try again tomorrow."

The 36-year-old Air Force major was in the capsule 5 hours 50 minutes, including a 90-minute wait after the scrub for technicians to extricate him.

"Just a disappointment," said Cooper's wife, Trudy who was following progress of the countdown at the Coopers' Houston, Tex., home with two teen-age daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13.

"That poor little fellow," was the way Cooper's mother, Mrs. Hattie Cooper, put it in Tecumseh, Okla., where she waited with her mother, 82-year-old Mrs. Orena Herd.

All were to be back at the same posts today.

The postponement did not dampen Cooper's high spirits or his enthusiasm to make the long flight. His medical advisers reported him in excellent physical and mental shape.

Other elements of the launching — the Atlas, the Faith 7 spacecraft, the recovery forces and tracking network — were reported ready for another attempt.

If Cooper completes the full 22 orbits, he will eclipse by 16 the present U.S. man-in-space record held by Walter M. Schirra, John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter each circled the globe three times, and Alan B. Shepard Jr., Cooper's backup — and Virgil I. Grissom each made 15-minute suborbital shots.

Four Russian cosmonauts have vaulted into orbit. Yuri Gagarin made it around once, Gherman

Kelly Bryant Says Office Surprising

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — After five months as secretary of state, Kelly Bryant says wielding the Great Seal of Arkansas is a lot like running a newspaper.

"Both jobs are full of surprises," says the former newspaper editor. "You wake up in a new world every day."

The plush, roomy office he now occupies seems a far cry from the offices of his old Hope Journal.

"But you see this?" Bryant asks, holding up a scarred index finger. "I got this for not jerking my hand out of a press quick enough. The same sort of thing could happen to me today."

But he likes the daily, unique problems posed by his new job, just as he liked them in 16 years as a newspaperman. He published and edited the Journal from 1938 until it merged with the Hope Star in 1951. He said the job well prepared him for the secretary of state's office.

"In both jobs you've got to think about what's best for the people. You have to know that the news you print—or hand out—is honest and not slanted."

Bryant has been on both ends of the news and he's seen a lot of changes.

"The average person is more conscious of national and world news because communications and airplanes have made the world smaller," he said. "In the same way, good highways have made the state smaller and people are more conscious of their own

Tilov 17 times—and in their tandem flight last August, Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich made 64 and 48 circuits, respectively.

Mercury officials labeled four points during the flight for vital go or no-go decisions. They were: immediately after the five-minute powered phase of flight when they would determine whether proper orbit was achieved (a feat in which the Bermuda radar plays a major role); near the end of the first orbit when it would be decided whether Cooper could continue for seven orbits; near the end of orbit seven when it would be determined whether he could make 17 orbits, and near the end of 17 when the decision would be made to continue the full 22.

Principal landing areas with large recovery contingents were located at the end of each of these passes.

The go, no-go determinations would be made after evaluation of the pilot's physical shape and the condition of the spacecraft, especially its supplies of oxygen and fuel.

In case of trouble, Faith 7 could be ordered down at any time to an alternate or emergency landing zone. Cooper's flight plan called for a 600,000-mile journey passing over five continents and more than 100 countries. A massive recovery fleet of 28 ships, 125 aircraft and 19,000 men was strung out beneath the orbital passes.

The flight was intended primarily to gather medical data in preparation for longer manned leaps into space scheduled with the two-man Gemini spacecraft starting next year—and later in the Apollo program designed to land American astronauts on the moon in this decade.

Medical men especially want to know how Cooper's ability to perform is affected by prolonged exposure to weightlessness. Medical devices attached to his body were to send mountains of data to ground stations about heart beat, respiration, body temperature and blood pressure.

Extensive post-flight examinations were scheduled.

Cooper's journey originally was to end the Project Mercury series. But because the first Gemini manned mission has slipped about a year to late 1964, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is considering another Mercury test—perhaps a three-day flight if the spacecraft can be modified to sustain life that long.

Several Gemini-oriented experiments were planned for Cooper's cosmic voyage. Among them were the release of a flashing sphere satellite and a 30-inch inflatable balloon which he was to observe and photograph in a test of his ability to judge distances in space important to Gemini and Apollo rendezvous assignments.

Several other photographic tasks also were on the flight plan to determine whether the horizon or high intensity lights on earth can serve as navigation reference points for spaceships returning from the moon.

ROLE OF BIG SISTER NOT AN EASY ONE

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband has seven brothers and two little sisters. Being older, I've played the role of big sister ever since we married 15 years ago. They are nice kids, fond of us both and trust me implicitly with all their problems.

Now the youngest boy, just 16, has got himself into trouble with a girl. She threatened to sue if he didn't marry her. He was scared to tell his mother so I did. She took the news so calmly that my husband and I and the boy were dumbfounded. She wanted to adopt the baby and thought they should have a church wedding with all the trimmings. I held out for a simple ceremony with just the two families and a few close friends present.

His folks are Protestant, I am Catholic and so is the girl. To my sorrow, she wanted a church wedding and a long white satin bridal gown. Our priest vetoed that an opposed the marriage, saying they were too young to know what real love was or to understand the hazards of a mixed marriage. In his opinion, what was done was done and getting married would not make it any better.

Her father now promises to pay my young brother-in-law good hard cash to go through with what amounts to a shotgun wedding. Already my young brother-in-law is running out on the girl. Knowing this, she wants to call off the wedding, but his folks and her father insist that she go through with it. I think the priest is right. Should I tell them so? —Please Help

Dear Please: The priest is right. Obviously your brother-in-law is marrying the girl to get the money her father promised. That makes him a cad. If ever he is to amount to anything he should be sternly disciplined.

This is your husband's job, not yours. However, since you have the boy's confidence you might state's news."

This is a big change even from 1950, he said, when people were much less interested in news outside their own area. "We're closer together now," he said. "A few years ago it was a good five hour drive from Hope to Little Rock. Now with good pavement you can breeze right up in two and a half hours."

Bryant is impressed with the swarm of newsmen now occupied in reporting state news that even 12 years ago was not so important to the average reader.

When asked to recount the high points in his newspaper career, Bryant said he remembers most "trying to get the obituary column right, and working on community drives. The big stories were few and far between."

After leaving the newspaper field, Bryant was secretary of the Arkansas Sheriffs Association and publisher of the Arkansas Almanac, in which he still has stock.

He relates changes in newspapering to changes in the secretary of state's office. Papers are handling more news and a greater variety of it. "Our commercial code desk is handling more business transactions than ever before," he said. And the list of state corporations grows daily.

Bryant says the doings of state agencies are much more important to the public now than when he was an editor. This is due to more thorough news coverage, brought on by a demand from the people to know more about how they are governed, he said.

Secretary of state was the first public office Bryant sought. He says most people don't understand its workings, just like they don't understand the workings of a newspaper.

Asked if he wanted to stay in politics the 54-year-old Bryant said "That's up to the people."

Accident Leads to Arrest
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Junior Harold Walker, subject of a nationwide search by the FBI for a year, lost his freedom because of an automobile accident.

The car in which he was riding collided Monday with one driven by Asst. U.S. Attorney James W. Gallman. Walker's arrest was revealed Tuesday by the FBI.

The FBI investigated the incident because an official of the United States was involved. Walker faces a federal charge of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

Walker is charged in Benton County Circuit Court with armed robbery in connection with the theft of a gun and police car March 22, 1962, from State Trooper James Morgan near Siloam Springs.

Walker is a native of Fort Smith, but listed his address as Fresno, Calif.

The accident occurred at an intersection of Highways 35 and 65 about six miles south of McGehee.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Fred W. Hooper, whose Winonly won the $22,550 Premier Handicap to open the Hollywood Park racing season Thursday, shoots for a second stakes victory with Sky Gem in the $25,000-added Debonair Stakes Saturday.

set him straight on certain fundamentals, one being that we pay for our mistakes and the bigger the mistake, the higher the price. The price he pays is loss of youth with all its fun and thrill of normal living. By breaking the code he's jumped from adolescence to fatherhood and whether he likes it or not, is morally obligated to foot the bills for the birth of his child.

Your husband should see that he works after school week-ends and during summer vacation with this one purpose in mind. Bank the money for him in a savings account. Police him for his own good. Only by doing so can his self-respect be salvaged and his character developed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ambition."

Dear Helen: The boy I go with is 16 but his parents treat him like a baby. If not home by 9:30 every night they keep him in the house for a week. In desperation, he is secretly singing up for seven years in the Service just to get away from home.

His folks are like a second father and mother to me and their home my second home. But if he asks to walk me home his mother hits the ceiling. How can I change his and their thinking? —Need help

Dear Need: Your boy friend is talking through his hat. In the first place he cannot enlist without the consent of his parents until he is 18, and then only for a three-year term with the privilege of re-enlisting at the end for another three years, making it a maximum of six years in all — not seven! Leave his upbringing to his parents. They have the right anyway — and you haven't. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Our Fine Teen-agers." Perhaps he could use it.

Dear Helen: In the relationship of my grandson to great-grandson, I am told they are not second cousins, as I always believed but first cousins once removed. If this is so, could you explain the difference? Trivial, perhaps, but confusing to an old lady of 60.

I lost my husband last June and am quite lonely at times. We had been married almost 40 years. Out of this union came five children, 14 grandchildren and this — our first great-grandchild. Thank you for listening to a fan of yours —Mrs. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: You and who-ever disagrees with you are both right. I checked with the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. The question of "consanguinity" as the state of being related by blood is called, has evidently plagued it too, for one of its members, John Reynolds Tottern, wrote a paper on the subject which the Society has published.

To quote him, "The term Cousin used to indicate collateral relationship is one which (beyond the degree of first cousin which is well understood by all) is used with a degree of vagueness as to the exact meaning . . . a first cousin is the son of an uncle; a second cousin the son of a first cousin. A third cousin the son of a second cousin the son of a first cousin. A third cousin the son of a second cousin and so on. On another page Mr. Tottern refers to them as cousins once removed, twice removed and three times removed. Why not just call them "Kissin' Cousins" and let it go at that?

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"HERE'S MY MONEY...

Just put in any old kind of air conditioner in my new house!"

Is this a sound way to do business? Certainly not. You wouldn't buy a car, furniture, or clothing that way. Yet, that is the way many people buy central air conditioning. It's like handing a car dealer several thousand dollars and saying: "Send me out a car."

Buying a central gas air conditioner is not just a purchase, but a long-term investment, so wiser buyers look closely at what they put into their new or remodeled home. We're glad they do, because it gives us a chance to show why Arkla Gas Air Conditioning is the finest on the market.

Here's what the wise buyer of central air conditioning should know:

INITIAL PRICE. You expect to pay much more for the best, but in our area, the Arkla Gas Central Air Conditioner is the finest on the market, yet competitively priced.

LENGTH OF SERVICE. This expertly-engineered, scientifically designed, and craftsman-built air conditioner is made to last the length of the average home mortgage.

MAINTENANCE. There are no moving parts in the heating or cooling cycle of the Arkla Gas Air Conditioner. Very little maintenance is required. A maintenance contract is offered with every air conditioner purchased. Your Gas Company is on call night and day for emergency service.

COST OF OPERATION. The Arkla Gas Air Conditioner uses low-cost natural gas as fuel. No zooming utility bills in summer with this fine central system. It's cheaper to operate than any of the lower priced systems.

SIZES. There are 17 models of Arkla Gas Air Conditioners, for any home, or office. They range in size from 2¾ tons to 6½ tons. They may be installed inside or outside your home. Wherever they're installed, they take up little space.

THE REST IS UP TO YOU: Insist that your builder get a firm estimate from our company before you close the deal on your new house. Both you and the builder will be pleased with the reasonable price of the finest air conditioning on the market. Call today for free estimate on gas air conditioning for your present home. We are as near as your telephone.

QUALITY OF INSTALLATION. You will like the quality of work that goes into the installation of Arkla Gas Air Conditioners. It is above the requirements called for by the FHA. Our installations are engineered for the best performance of your central air conditioning system.

COOLING AND HEATING CAPACITY. The capacity of the Arkla unit never varies . . . it lasts as long as the unit.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS. Arkla Gas Air Conditioners not only cool and heat, but also dehumidify the air, freshen and circulate inside air, and ventilate perfectly. You select your inside weather with the turn of a dial!

WE STAND BEHIND WHAT WE SELL: Your Gas Company stands behind every Arkla Air Conditioner it sells. We'll be here a long time, too — Your Air Conditioner will never be a maintenance "orphan" with no one to take care of it. Sellers of other types of air conditioners go in and out of business constantly, but we're here to stay — to sell more and more people the finest air conditioner on the market — Arkla Gas Air Conditioning.

I was not the only one who liked Smokey Howdershell. He was popular with everyone. My own circle of friends liked him very much, though it became a "thing" in the crowd to pretend to be grateful that he'd helped them most by being a single man to match up with Jannie. have listened to any talk against Smokey and so we didn't hear any. "Sometimes our group wondered about Smokey's first marriage. He was good at parrying direct questions and ignoring leading ones; and at times, various ones would try to institute a new romance for him. Nancy Johnson's sister visited her—Tony Saputo brought up a peach of a girl from the St. Louis offices.

Town gossip tried its hand at rounding out Dr. Howdershell's life—and I was in an osition to Of course not one of us would hope that the force of this interest and wishful thinking would be great enough to succeed. No woman would ever find greater joy nor be more secure than with a man like him. Smokey himself may have realized that his life needed a woman in it though he seemed to keep busy and happy enough. He loved his work. He truly did, going to the hospital with interest, working there as if he enjoyed every grubby detail as much as he did the big crises. He loved his home just as intently. This last spring, after her appendicitis attack, and her surgery, Lovey wanted to work at the hospital as a candystriper, but Smokey vetoed the project. I thought he should let her. Other girls, I said—

"They aren't too much help at 16, Jannie," he told me. "And Lovey isn't ready to be realistic about hospital work. She'd better wait."

We were such good friends. Smokey and I, and no more, that I began to wonder if some of the town's stories might not be true. That there still was a Mrs. Howdershell somewhere around in a TB sanitarium in a mental institution, separated from Smokey, but not divorced. None of the family ever mentioned such a woman. Never once did the children speak of their mother. I decided that there must have been some tragedy about which they could not talk.

Aunt Bean said the town knew how much time I was spending over at Howdershell's.

"So, while they think the doctor has been doing a good job with his children, they think Lovey could use a mother."

"Mmmmmmm." "She's a very pretty girl, Jannie."

"Yes, she is. Exquisite."

Remarks That Mothers Tire of Hearing

By MAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that mothers get tired of hearing: "What'll we give Mom for Mother's Day this Sunday—a new ice pick or a new can opener?" "Don't tell me we're having shish kebab with grape leaves for dinner again? That's what I had for lunch. Can't you ever think up anything new?" "After all, Mother, this is a new generation, and I don't want to be stick-in-the-mud. Why, there are girls in our class who have been going steady since they were 10—and here I am almost 12 years old."

"Hey, Mom, here's some good news. My big pet blacksnake in the basement has just had kittens. Now we can have snakes all over the house."

"Mothers sure have it easy today. My grandmother used to have to go out and help pull the plow when the mule got sick."

"Three of her front teeth are coming in crooked. But I think that in three years—and for $750—I can straighten them out nicely."

"Answer the phone, will you, Mom? I'm busy studying this book on the boyhood of Abraham Lincoln. What a square he was!"

"I don't care what the kids did. I've had a hard day at the office. If they need punishing, you punish them."

"Hurry up and sew on the button, Mom, or I'll be late to school."

"Mother, dear, could you please help me with this homework problem in algebra? While you're working it out I'll watch television. They've got a real keen program on, and I'll just die if I don't get to see it."

"Stab me with a knife, Mother, shoot me with a gun—but please, please, please don't make me wear an old-fashioned dress like that to school. Everybody in class will laugh at me. I'd rather be dead, dead, dead."

"What a soft snap women have today! Why, my grandmother used to take in washing to help out the family."

"It's Mrs. Spieler on the phone, Mom. She wants to know if you can drive around and pick up three or four more parents on your way to the P.T.A. meeting tonight."

"Please don't let Dad see my report card, Mom. He'll kill me—I just know he will."

"I'd love to help you with the dinner dishes, Mother dear, but right now I have to call Jane and ask her about this history quiz we're going to have tomorrow. You wouldn't want me to flunk it, would you?"

"So what if the meal does get cold, Mom? I ain't really hungry anyway."

"Now I want to get one thing straight once and for all: I'm the boss in this family."

"I don't see why you complain about being so tired. Why, my grandmother worked 16 hours a day, lived to be 80, and never had a labor-saving device in her life."

prettier as she firms up into womanhood."

"But what do you expect me to do, Aunt Bean?"

"Most young women know how to bring a man to the mark," she said vehemently.

"Then there are things you haven't taught me."

She was exasperated with me, and would say no more. But I'd answered her quite honestly. There was nothing I could do.

And the town was dead right. Lovey did need a mother. Just about then, life was proving to be very confusing to the girl. For the past months she had gone steady with Benny Bell. We didn't approve. Keyes, Smokey and I. Even Clara called him a no-good. But Lovey would not be swayed by our opinion of him.

Then, suddenly, in August, she herself gave Benny the heave-ho. Because, she said, the big dope had told her that he was not going to enter college that fall. He was ready, he had been accepted, but he was going to work at the drive-in.

Lovey would not see him again, or talk to him.

And she must find ways to ad just herself to life without him. There would be other boys, other steadies even. But she had gone with Benny for a long time. He wasn't much good, and she'd known that—but—well—life was confusing, she told me.

I agreed solemnly that it was. "And hard on a girl, Jannie. There are times when she can't seem to do things about it."

"It's a man's world, Lovey. Or so I've been told."

Lovey thought about that. "But I don't wish I were a man, do you?"

"I don't think so. But still—I sometimes wonder."

Maybe she did need a mother. I couldn't seem to come up with the right word for her.

I hoped that Smokey would find things to say to her, and ways to fill this gap in her life. But he didn't seem to try.

Taylor Story Not Likely to Show Much

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio-Writer NEW YORK (AP)—When Elizabeth Taylor, an American motion picture actress, gets around to showing her native city, London, to television viewers next season, there won't be a tourist cliché shown, the producers assured us.

"I suppose we'll see Liz Taylor in the Post's Corner, Liz Taylor setting her watch by Big Ben, Liz Taylor borrowing a pound from the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," ventured our reporter eagerly.

Norman Baer and Phil D'Antoni, who dreamed up "Elizabeth Taylor's London" and sold it to Miss Taylor, a sponsor and the CBS network inside of four days, looked disdainful.

"Absolutely not," replied D'Antoni firmly. "You won't see any of those tired old things."

Baer and D'Antoni have been in network broadcasting for several years, and formed a television packaging company about three months ago.

"We want to produce specials, and we worked on several ideas," explained Baer. "Then we thought of the London show. There were really only two people who would have been perfect to do it."

"Elizabeth Two or, Elizabeth T.?" asked your reporter.

"No," said Baer. "Miss Taylor or Princess Margaret. We asked Miss Taylor first and she accepted."

The producers air-mailed some material directly to the actress, who immediately invited them to talk it over.

D'Antoni flew to London and wrapped up the deal. Neither partner will say how much Miss Taylor will receive for the hour-long special but indicated that $400,000 was a most conservative figure.

"She felt that a television tour of London had great educational value," explained D'Antoni.

The filming of the show is expected to start the end of this month, to be finished by the end of June. They have hired an English camera crew, including one photographer who has made a specialty of photographing women. And in color.

"What a soft snap women have today! Why, my grandmother used to take in washing to help out the family."

"It's Mrs. Spieler on the phone, Mom. She wants to know if you can drive around and pick up three or four more parents on your way to the P.T.A. meeting tonight."

Giants Seem to Like Home Park Better

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

After plundering enemy territory with amazing success, the San Francisco Giants have returned to Candlestick Park—and find home isn't the worst place in the world to be, after all.

The Giants opened a two-week stand at San Francisco Tuesday night and squeezed out a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, with right-hander Jack Sanford registering the 100th victory of his National League career.

In a turnaround for the defending NL champions, Candlestick hasn't been a happy haven for them this season. They were a remarkable 61-21 there last year, while only 42-41 away from home. This spring they've won only 7 of 15 at Candlestick, but have feasted on the road at a 13-5 clip.

By winning Tuesday night, the Giants pushed 1½ games ahead in the league scramble. Wondrous Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves trimmed St. Louis' second-place Cardinals 4-3. The Chicago Cubs, 2-1 winners over Cincinnati on Ken Hubbs' two-run homer in the eighth inning, moved into a virtual tie with Pittsburgh for third, 2½ games off the pace.

In other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat Don Drysdale for the first time in five seasons in a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers; and the Houston Colts posted their sixth straight victory and dumped New York into the cellar, edging the Mets 4-3.

In the American League—Ray Herbert pitched his fourth consecutive shutout for Chicago's first-place White Sox, blanking Detroit 3-0; the New York Yankees nipped slumping Minnesota 2-1; Baltimore downed Washington 6-1 on Robin Roberts' four-hitter; and Kansas City rapped Cleveland 5-2. The Los Angeles-at-Boston game was rained out.

San Francisco managed only four hits off Bob Friend in the seven innings he worked but bunched a walk to Willie Mays, singles by Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda, an error and Joey Amalfitano's sacrifice fly for two runs in the fourth. They added another off Harvey Haddix in the eighth.

Wes Covington's eighth homer started the Phils off toward a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Drysdale, who had beaten Philadelphia 13 times in a row dating back to September 1958.

Cal McLish, who won it with a five-hitter, rapped two doubles and scored twice.

The Braves, who had lost three straight and nine of their last 10, pulled out of their skid behind Spahn. The 42-year-old southpaw wizard was touched for 11 hits and was banged in the abdomen by a liner off Stan Musial's bat in the second inning. He stuck it out for his fifth victory this year and his 332nd over-all.

The Cubs ended a losing string at four on Hubbs' homer in the last of the eighth. It came against Cincinnati lefty Joe Nuxhall after rookie right fielder Ken Walters dropped pinch hitter Ken Aspromonte's fly for a two-base error.

The Colts matched a club record with their sixth straight victory, but had to stave off another of the Mets' whirlwind finishes. Dick Farrell had checked the Mets on three hits and carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth, then got roughed up for two runs on Ron Hunt's single, a walk, two ground outs and Jim Hickman's single before getting the elusive last out.

Arkansans Regain the League Lead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Arkansas Travelers take a rest today, after re-gaining the Southern division lead in International League baseball Tuesday night with a 5-2 defeat of Columbus.

They are en route to Richmond for a two-game series.

In other action in the league Buffalo downed Atlanta 5-4, Indianapolis whipped Jacksonville 6-1, Rochester slipped by Syracuse 1-0 and Toronto split a doubleheader with Richmond, 4-5, 2-10.

Atlanta and the Travelers remain even or games won and lost, but Arkansas has the percentage lead, .593 to .586, in the division.

Arkansans got only nine runners on base, in the Buffalo game, but scored five of them.

The cellar-dwelling Jets had 16 men on base against John Boozar, but couldn't squeeze but two home in taking their fifth straight loss on the home diamond.

Boozar was aided by three double plays.

He entered the game with a record of giving up only four bases on balls and having 48 strikeouts in 42 innings. He added only four more strikeouts to his record and gave up six walks.

Bob Malkmus slammed two homers, one for two runs. John Herrmstein brought home an additional two with his over-the-fence blast.

The cutting of the Traveler active player roster to 21 was announced Tuesday by General Manager Ray Winder. Winder said Catcher Bill Heath and pitchers Dave Baldwin and Bob Gontosky have been assigned to Chattanooga.

White Sox Ace Has Hurlled 4 Scoreless Tilts

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days someone is going to get a run off Ray Herbert. Sure they are. But don't hold your breath, Charley.

The Chicago White Sox ace hasn't been scored upon in four straight games and gives no indication he's going to ease up. His next scheduled outing will send him against Minnesota's struggling Twins, who have been blanked six times this season.

The 33-year-old right-hander, trade bait a couple of years ago but a 20-game winner last season, spaced six hits in scoring his fourth consecutive shutout Tuesday night, a 3-0 decision over Detroit.

The victory enabled the American League leading White Sox to retain their one-game lead over Kansas City, 5-2 victors over Cleveland.

New York's Yankees scored a 2-1 triumph over Minnesota behind Whitey Ford's five-hit pitching and veteran Robin Roberts won his first game of the season after four losses, pitching Baltimore to a 6-1 decision over Washington.

The Los Angeles Angels' game at Boston was rained out.

In the National League, Milwaukee's Warren Spahn won the 332nd game of his career, 4-3 over St. Louis. Houston fought off the New York Mets 4-3, Chicago edged Cincinnati 2-1, Philadelphia beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 and San Francisco's leading Giants clipped Pittsburgh 3-1.

Kansas City rushed in four first-inning runs, two on a blooming double by Jerry Lumpe, then held off Cleveland on the six-hit pitching of Ed Rakow.

The Yankees' Ford got the benefit of an unearned run winning his fourth straight. Hector Lopez singled in the tie-breaking run after the Minnesota infield had messed up two potential double plays in the eighth.

Roberts tossed a four-hitter for the Orioles, with his shutout bid spoiled by Larry Osborne's homer. Homers by Jim Gentile and Boog Powell helped him to a 4-0 lead in the third inning.

Annual Chant Makes It Hard on the Voters

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the time when Democrats and Republicans embark on a voyage which carries them close to the isles of fantasy. They're sailing now.

It happens every four years, about a year and some months before the next presidential election. They line the rails, chanting a political anthem composed in part of exaggerated charges and preposterous claims.

This makes it doubly hard on the earnest voter along the shore. He wants to separate fact from fiction, the bland from the blatant, and the true from the trite.

But he has a time, close-up or with field-glasses, telling Democrats from Republicans since they're such look-alikes.

From now until election day the politicians will be in a state which psychologists call euphoria. Without any apparent effort, and often without facts, they imagine all kinds of good things happening to them.

Thursday, for instance, Republican congressional leaders predicted that the GOP in 1964 would capture the presidency and the House. But then they suffered a complete lapse of prophecy. This will last until their convention.

They wouldn't predict their presidential candidate.

Their three front-runners, all eager to make a speech at the drop of an invitation or without one, have managed to fight off any public display of their own euphoria.

The three — New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, and Michigan's Gov. George Romney—all deny they have presidential ambitions.

This is like hearing a fisherman say he's sitting in the hot sun for exercise.

The Republicans, now that this is open season, are attacking President Kennedy's leadership. Their national chairman, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, has accused him of "apathy and drift."

Miller's opposite number, John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, returned the favor against Rockefeller who until recently, at least, looked like the man on the inside track in the Republican race.

Bailey accused Rockefeller of lacking leadership in his own state of New York. Not to be outdone, the governor has had some uncomplimentary things to say about the way Kennedy is leading.

But Bailey, like the Republicans, also got carried away by his dreams of political plenty and invaded New York to tell the Democrats he expects them to carry the state for Kennedy in 1964.

Even the cave-dwellers knew that nothing burns a man up so quickly—including his ambitions—as building a fire under him. The Republicans, having built one under Kennedy, are throwing logs on it steadily.

This week many of them popped up in the Senate to announce that the President's policies had caused a "great leap backward" in United States prestige abroad.

But it's still so early all this criticism was as mild as coughing under a blanket compared with what the Republicans will do later. What they're doing now is hardly more than warming up their motor on a frosty morning.

Kennedy, who will be running again in 1964, for many months to come has a advantage over any would-be Republican candidate or, for that matter, all the Republicans put together.

As President he can hold a televised news conference every week—which can be like a 30-minute campaign talk to the nation—or do something around the White House which gets his pictures in the papers every day.

It's amazing how he stays in focus.

For a politician this is the happiest, because it's the best and most inexpensive, kind of public exposure. No Republican can match him in it until the party formally picks its candidate in the summer of 1964.

Even then he won't get as much attention as the President.

The Democrats, with Kennedy a sure thing as their candidate, will lack the special excitement of the Republicans who still must find one. But there isn't a politician who wouldn't trade excitement for contentment any day.

The politicians of both parties never feel so content in a presidential campaign as when their candidate is trying to renew his lease on that house on Pennsylvania Avenue.

State Small in Moonshine Production

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Legend has it that moonshiners are legion in Arkansas but the arrest record indicates that the state's traffic in illegal whiskey is small potatoes compared with sister Southern states.

Records in the federal Alcohol Tobacco Tax Unit office show that only 88 stills were destroyed in Arkansas last year.

North Carolina moonshiners lost 1,111 stills, 1,002 were destroyed in Alabama, 857 in Georgia, 855 in Tennessee and 400 in Mississippi.

Moonshining is mainly a Southern problem with 93 per cent of the liquor law violations last year coming in 14 Southern states.

The Arkansas ATTU, headed by James S. Merrick for the last five years, has a staff of 15 investigators working out of offices in Little Rock, Fort Smith, Hot Springs, Texarkana, Pine Bluff and Camden.

ATTU men, like the FBI, work with local authorities on raids. Merrick would not discuss investigative tactics or Arkansas areas in which the ATTU thinks moonshining is a particular problem.

But arrest records indicate that the typical Arkansas still is a simple operation. A large one would have a mash capacity of 2,500 to 3,000 gallons.

Merrick said a still can produce about 40 gallons of 100 proof whiskey each five days for each 1,000 gallons of mash capacity.

The traditional picture of a still is a deep-forest operation, but the ATTU has found distilleries in city homes and farm houses as well as in the woods.

But Arkansas moonshiners apparently are not as ambitious as the New Jersey group which built a still in a three-story factory building and were ready to process 15,000 gallons of mash a day when the ATTU stepped in.

The typical still consists of fermenters (usually a barrel) in which a mixture of grain and sugar is allowed to ferment, cookers and a coil where the vapor off the cooker becomes alcohol.

A batch of mash usually runs about 10 per cent alcohol, Merrick said. The moonshiner is able to separate the alcohol from the mash because alcohol boils (and turns into vapor) at 180 degrees compared to 212 degrees for water.

The man handling the cooking must keep the heat between 180 and 212 degrees.

Merrick said a wholesaler of moonshine can buy the finished product at $4 to $5 per gallon. The retailer pays about $8 a gallon, then he charges what the retail trade will bear.

Most of the moonshine seized in Arkansas runs between 90 and 110 proof although loads of up to 143 proof have been found.

Arkansas moonshiners usually transport their product in half-gallon, gallon and five-gallon jars, Merrick said. His men haven't intercepted any of the "tank cars," an auto with a built-in tank, such as are used by big moonshine operators in the Tennessee-North Carolina mountains.

Merrick said it was impossible to estimate the tax revenue lost in Arkansas because of moonshining. The federal tax alone is $10.50 a gallon and this would come to more than $300,000 on the 29,690 gallons of non-tax liquor seized in Arkansas last year.

Of course, the "revenuers" don't know how much was produced in stills they haven't seen yet. They put a lot of emphasis on the "yet."

Uncle Sam Can Still Lose Gold

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It can happen here. With all the good economic news and all the new bulwarks and international banking accords Uncle Sam can still lose more of his gold.

The loss isn't catastrophic. He still has $15.8 billion of the metal. The drain this year even is reassuringly small—some $150 million compared with $425 million a year ago. And this in the face of a loss in dollars themselves that has been rising this year.

But it is this increased deficit in international payments that gives the actual loss in gold more significance than the size of the drop in the metal reserves. The deficit still eludes most of the efforts so far to halt it.

It arises from the outflow of U.S. government and private dollars exceeding the return. Last year some $2.2 billion more went out than came back. In the first quarter of this year the annual rate of the deficit rose to $2.8 billion. And part of this was because U.S. exports trailed the year ago figure by 1 per cent, while imports were increasing.

This is one of the problems Americans delegates will take with them to the preliminary skirmish in Geneva Thursday of 40 nations seeking to readjust tariffs and other barriers to greater world trade.

The U.S. deficit of monetary payments doesn't arise from an excess of imports over exports. On the contrary, the balance of trade itself is in this nation's favor. The deficit comes from this being wiped out and topped by other U.S. spending abroad—for military bases, for economic and military aid, for private investment, for tourism.

In 1961 the United States exports topped imports by $5.4 billion, and in 1962 by $4.4 billion.

But in all of the last 10 years save one the United States ran a deficit in its total payments. The largest was $3.9 billion in 1960. Efforts to whittle down some of U.S. overseas payments—and to increase exports—have reduced the deficit each year since then. The rise in the first quarter of this year was, therefore, disconcerting.

The loss of gold comes about because as foreigners build up these surplus American dollars they turn them into their central banks. These have the right to use the dollars to buy gold from the U.S. Treasury at the fixed price of $35 an ounce, plus 8 cents handling charge. Since some central banks like to build up their gold reserves they use this right.

This is chief reason the U.S. gold stocks have fallen from more than $23 billion in 1952 to less than $16 billion today.

The United States and other leading industrial nations have an

Dinah Shore Show Always Colorful

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Color adds something to any program, including a Western. "Bonanza" has beautiful landscape, and once in a while on my set I'm surprised to find a very red pair of cheeks or ears on the hero, or even the heroine.

It's fun to observe Perry Como in his lavender or tangerine sweaters and see Lawrence Spivak looking pink and earnest accord whereby the central banks protect against any speculative run on each other's currencies or gold reserves.

So this year despite the large surplus of American dollars other nations hold, the gold loss has been held to $50 million in each of three weeks—ending Wednesday Jan. 16, Feb. 27 and May 8.

But the loss can continue as long as the deficit of payments piles up dollars abroad.

Agreement on Use of Materials

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement has been made between the Atomic Energy Commission and Arkansas for transfer to the state of some of the regulatory authority of the AEC over use of radioactive materials.

Five other states have reached similar agreements with the commission—Kentucky, Mississippi, California, New York and Texas.

The agreement covers use of such materials within the state. Dr. J. T. Herron, state Health Officer, said the agreement would become effective July 1, giving the new Division of Radiological Health of the state Health Department power to license, inspect and control fissionable and radioactive materials for non-military uses.

against a dark blue patriotic background. But for the feminine viewer the Dinah Shore show has been the most fun of all.

Miss Shore wears beautiful, chic and subtly colorful clothes and seems to it that her feminine guest stars do too. Sometimes, in fact, we women become so bemused by the rich red taffetas, or the sand-colored chiffon, or the artful beadwork on the bodices, that we really don't pay as much attention as we should to the rest of the program.

Therefore, we're going to miss the Dinah Shore show next season when the star enjoys a sabbatical from television and its discipline. We're going to miss the color, the clothes and, of course, the music.

The Dinah Shore show has been a musical treat, a fine showcase of talent and a special joy to watch in color.

The orbital flights of Astronaut L.
